City's Coldest In Ohio Today

Temperatures plummeted to a low of seven degrees above zero this morning at Hayesville—simultaneously chalking up the coldest weather in the state for the day and the Mansfield area's low so far this winter.

Mansfield was a little colder than Bismarck, N. D., where temperature stood at 8 above today.

The frigid weather h throughout Ohio, but fe said the cold snap would begin breaking tomorrow. Temperatures are expected to range upward during the next two days.

The weather bureau, which so far this winter hasn't had much luck forecasting, ventured to guess that the weather in Cleveland Sunday would be "fairly mild" for the All-America championship football game between the Cleveland Browns and the New York Yankees.

In general, the forecasters said, the season's first extended cold wave was moving eastward, and Ohio had promise of relief from icy blasts by tomorrow.

Today, however, the entire midwest and most of the eastern seaboard was gripped in sub-freezing temperatures which spread as far south as Birmingham, Ala.

FORECASTS PUT DEWEY, TRUMAN BOTH IN RING

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON

WASHINGTON— (INS) —President Truman stood out boldly today as the foremost Democratic candidate for the White House in 1948 and Washington political observers believed he will make the race on a "prosperity" platform.

At the same time and despite his smiling denial that he is a candidate, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York was viewed as an odds-on favorite for the Republican nomination.

Mr. Truman had a "no comment" reply at his news conference Wednesday when he was asked flatly if he would accept the 1948 Democratic nomination. But he parried the question with high good humor.

Dewey has unofficially served notice that he will wield influence in the national picture through the New York Republican delegation in congress. The governor yesterday conferred with 19 of New York's 29 Republican congressmen.

The Dewey organization already is far-flung and smoothly functioning. Despite the New York governor's reticence about his candidacy, the men and women working toward that end have placed him in a position dominating that of such other GOP hopefuls as Sen. Robert A. Taft. Sen. Arthur Vandenberg and Former Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota.

Mr. Truman gave strong indication at his pre-Christmas news conference that he determined to convince the nation in the year ahead that he is an able executive who knows the road to prosperity.

12,000 PUPILS START HOLIDAY TOMORROW

School bells will be silenced for two weeks at the close of classes tomorrow, as approximately 12,000 children in Mansfield and Richland county schools lay aside the books for their annual Christmas vacation.

St. Peter's parochial school will observe the same vacation as public schools this year, Msgr. R. C. Goebel said today. Mansfield and rural schools will close tomorrow at 3 p. m. and open again on Monday, Jan. 6.

Many city and county schools will hold their annual Christmas programs tomorrow afternoon before vacation starts.

I PLAYED AT

Friendly House

HOWARD P. WENNING

(Editor's Note: This is the first in a series of personal sketches of well-known Mansfield residents who used Friendly House facilities in their youth.)

Howard P. Wenning, Richland county clerk of courts and active participant in civic and fraternal organizations, says:

"I played a lot of basketball before the little matter of years made me give up such an active sport. I recall that when I was a youngster going to grade school, our school team went to Friendly House quite frequently to use the gymnasium there.

"I have been interested in Friendly House ever since I had the occasion to make use of some of its facilities as a kid. I believe it is a splendid organization and deserving of generous support on the part of everyone in its current building fund campaign."

BANS PATIENTS IN HALLS

NEW BUILDING EXPECTED TO COST $300,000

Congregational Members Get Details of Project on Marion Avenue Site.

Preliminary plans for a new Congregational church to cost more than $300,000 were accepted last night by 180 members of the church congregation at a meeting in the basement of the Park Avenue Baptist church.

Congregational church members have been using the Baptist church and other buildings for their services since their church, a city landmark on Park avenue west, was destroyed by fire more than four years ago.

Harry B. Soulen, chairman of the building committee, said today that the congregation also accepted the committee's recommendations to go ahead with final plans on the church. The church will be built on the northwest corner of Marion avenue and Millsboro road. The site was presented to the church by Robert B., Donald, and Roger Black.

Plans submitted for approval were drawn by the architect firm of Thomas and Wagner of Philadelphia, Pa.

BILBO APPEARS AS WITNESS IN OWN DEFENSE

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Senator Bilbo (D-Miss) declared at his war contracts investigation today that he never had sought gifts or funds "with the possible exception of the money that I borrowed to make a property settlement with my ex-wife."

Taking the stand with a 10,000-word prepared statement, Bilbo said that evidence to date showed "that I am a very poor man and heavily involved in debt and that I received during all the period that the investigation has covered but two Christmas gifts, one an automobile and the other living room furniture consisting of a sofa, three floor lamps and two table lamps.

Bilbo began reading his statement after a brief discussion with the senate war investigating subcommittee as to whether interruptions should be allowed in his testimony.

The Mississippi senator said he preferred to read it straight through, as he had made an effo... to prepare it in "an orderly, se...ential way."

...nator Ferguson (R-Mich.) pro...ested that the committee had not had a chance to peruse it and should be allowed to question Bilbo at any point it chose.

Speaking somewhat indistinctly because he is unable to wear his lower dental plate Bilbo said "it will take about an hour" to read the statement.

He's Unperturbed

The 69-year-old veteran of many a political battle was unperturbed as he waited his summons to the witness stand to be queried by members of the war investigating committee concerning his dealing with war contractors.

Bilbo's turn came after Edward P Terry, his former secretary, was summarily dismissed as a witness late yesterday for refusing to answer questions regarding the disposition of $15,000 he obtained to find and finance a Mississippi opponent to "beat Bilbo."

Chairman Mead (D-N. Y.) and Senator Ferguson (R-Mich.) ordered charges of "perjury" and "contempt of the senate" brought against Terry. He had been looked upon earlier by opponents of Bilbo as a "star witness" in their efforts to keep the Mississippi senator from taking his seat next month.

'High Finance' Provides Fun, Adventure for 30 Navy Vets

By MARGUERITE MILLER

Former PT boat Skipper Robert Lynch of Mansfield owns one-thirtieth of a horse, "an interest" in a Swedish actress and may soon see the story of himself and his 29 other navy pals in the movies.

And all this for $200—on the installment plan!

Back in 1942 and '43, things weren't looking very bright for American naval forces in the Pacific. New Guinea's rain-soaked jungle was a far cry from the sidewalks of home. Chrome and leather restaurants, soft lights and luxurious food were things to come home to.

Between tours of duty, Wildcat Enterprises was born in the conversation about plans for after the war. This fall, the Wildcats came of age by incorporating with assets of the original partnership turned over to the corporation.

* * *

"IT MADE GOOD CONVERsation and helped to pass the time," Lynch said as he told of the beginnings of the Wildcats. Out of the navy for a year, Lynch is employed in the advertising office at the Ohio Brass company. He and his wife, both native New Yorkers, reside at 490 Park avenue west.

"Our original membership was 26 men, one of the founders being Lt. Robert Bulkley, son of the former Ohio senator," Lynch went on. "Since the war we've taken in four more who were out there with us at the time the Wildcats were set up but who were probably too skeptical at the time to join.

ROBERT LYNCH

"The main idea was to open a saloon on Third avenue in New York with a back room for members only. That idea hasn't materialized yet, because it would take more money than we counted on. But it's definitely in the future plans!

* * *

"WE PUT IN $10 A MONTH for 20 months and drew up a constitution, specifically stating that the organization 'would make investments that would give poise to an ordinarily prudent man.' We thought we'd lose the money in a hurry. But since we haven't, it's getting difficult.

"No melons have been cut so far," according to Lynch, who said that the "business end" of the Wildcats is being carried on by the majority of members on the east coast. Other members are scattered throughout Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, California, Michigan, Illinois and Texas.

From the original $5,600 working capital, $1,700 has been earned for the organization by "Expendable," $3,200 pacing horse which looked pretty good on the New York harness tracks in his first season last summer. Lynch said that officials at the Roosevelt track on Long Island said the four-year-old was the only horse in the track's history with 30 owners. He was also probably one of the few equine stars who "held a reception" at the Waldorf Astoria before his first race.

* * *

"NOW THAT WE HAVE A little money to play with, we're hoping for our Swedish actress to click in a screen test, and for Twentieth Century Fox to pick up the script written for us by Quentin Reynolds. In the meantime, we've had all sorts of offers for us to back.

"For instance, a man in Colorado wanted us to back the manufacture of a device to find gold. Another knew of some oil land in New Mexico. Still another wanted to open a restaurant in New York and name it after us. So far we're not taking up any of these—we'd rather buy a prize fighter."

Anyway, the lawyers, advertising men, distillers, accountants, salesmen and college students who make up the Wildcats are having a lot of fun.

YULE MAIL SETS RECORD FOR CITY'S POST OFFICE

The greatest number of cancellations for a 24-hour period in the history of the Mansfield post office was recorded Wednesday.

Curtis L. Ford, acting postmaster, said the 176,400 cancellations, for the second time in two days, broke the previous record of 170,900 in 24 hours established last year.

Tuesday's total was 171,800.

These recorded cancellations do not include metered mail and hand cancellations, Ford pointed out.

In addition the post office handled 11,000 pieces of third class mail, almost triple the daily average of 3,500 to 4,000 pieces.

Postage stamps sales for the last three days totaled 330,000 one-and-one-half cent, and 100,000 three-cent stamps for another record, Ford said.

"The Christmas mailing rush was slow in developing," Ford said, "but now that it's here it looks like it's making up for lost time by breaking all records for Mansfield."

5 DIE, 50 HURT IN HOTEL FIRE

PHILADELPHIA —(INS)— Five men were killed and 50 others were injured early today when flames swept the first two floors of a South Philadelphia hotel.

Three of the injured were reported in critical condition.

Only fast and heroic work by firemen prevented the death toll from rising perhaps to the proportions of the recent Winecoff hotel disaster in Atlanta, Ga.

The blaze started on the first floor of the four story brick structure known as Abe's hotel at 10:30 p. m. last night. Heavy smoke swirled upward, dazing the 140 occupants.

Fire Marshal George Gallagher announced after a preliminary investigation that the management apparently had complied with fire regulations. He said he found the exits in order and not blocked.

Police, who identified the hotel owner as Abraham A. Ell, of Atlantic City, N. J., said rooms in the place rented for 20 to 35 cents a night.

Working in sub-zero weather, the firemen carried the partially-clad victims down ladders and leading others through smoke-filled hallways.

The fire was brought under control after a two and a half hour struggle intensified by high, biting winds. Both the first and second floors were destroyed, firemen reported.

Backs Federal Law To Punish 'Fixers'

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Rep. Ed Hebert of Louisiana declared today congress should drive "chiselers and fixers" away from pro and amateur sports by making bribery of athletes a federal offense.

He told a reporter he would introduce bills to do this just as soon as congress convenes Jan. 3 —"and don't think the penalties won't be tough."

New Method Saves Blue Baby's Life

CHICAGO— (INS) —A new milestone in the fight to cure blue babies was believed to have been reached at Children's hospital in Chicago today.

The hospital said five-months-old Martin O'Malley, son of Mr. and Mrs. William O'Malley of Chicago, was sent home yesterday, apparently cured following an operation performed Nov. 21.

Prior to this time babies under 2 years of age had been considered bad surgical risks. The ailment involves an imperfectly-formed heart which is unable to supply sufficient blood to the lungs.

Hospital staff members recently announced perfection of a method of joining the baby's main artery with the pulmonary artery which takes blood to the lungs.

They said this system is less dangerous than the operation developed at Johns Hopkins hospital.

CLASSES DISMISSED AFTER BUS TRAGEDY

NEWBERRY, S. C.—(UP)—The Silverstreet consolidated school dismissed classes for its 250 students today in a pre-Christmas recess darkened by tragedy in the death of 10 children killed in their school bus by a speeding passenger train.

Richard Sanders, 41, who had driven the children to school daily from their surrounding farm homes in Newberry and Saluda counties, also was killed, and 11 other children were injured, many critically.

An official inquiry was started into the cause of the grade crossing tragedy on a dirt road seven miles north of here, almost within sight of the school. Thus far, survivors have been unable to give a coherent account of the accident.

WAR CRIMES TRIAL BARES JAP TORTURES

TOKYO —(INS)— The story of tortures heaped upon American survivors of the Bataan death march after they were shipped to Formosa was related today at the Tokyo war crimes trial of 27 Japanese war leaders.

A British prosecutor told the international tribunal that the Americans were transported in 1944 from Manila to Formosa aboard transports still filthy from horse cargoes.

An affidavit submitted by an American survivor said that 600 men were crammed into the hold of one of the ships, forcing 400 of them to stand while 200 slept.

Fed the equivalent of six soda crackers daily, the miserable men in the holds lost weight rapidly and an average of 25 died daily on the 20-day voyage.

When they landed at Formosa, they were stripped of clothing and given a medical examination outdoors before the Formosan populace.

British prosecutors also told the tribunal that a Japanese prison ship crew battened the hatches over more than 1,800 British prisoners after the ship was torpedoed. The crew abandoned the ship and left the prisoners to sink with the vessel.

The incident occurred in October, 1942, when the Lisbon Maru, carrying British prisoners from Hongkong to Japan was torpedoed off the China coast.

After the Japs abandoned the ship, the prisoners broke the hatches and went over the side to swim to an island five miles away.

Lieut. Hamilton said a Jap ship stood by, not offering any aid until Chinese junks began picking up survivors. Then the Japanese ship picked up 970 prisoners. Eight hundred, forty-six other British troops were reported missing, and presumably drowned.

Honesty Pays, But Rate's a Bit Slow

TACOMA, Wash. —(AP)— Alfred G. Wendler found a wallet in front of a cafe and turned it over to the man behind the counter when he went inside to eat.

As he he departed, Wendler was handed a $5 bill—a reward from the owner who claimed the wallet and disclosed there were three $1,000 bills and five $100s in it.

Hospital Told It Must Clear All Corridors

Fire Chief Steele Acts on Instructions From State Marshal; Order Effective Jan. 15.

Mansfield General hospital was under orders of Fire Chief L. J. Steele today to remove all patients from corridors by Jan. 15.

The fire chief informed members of the hospital board at their monthly meeting last night that the measure was necessary to eliminate a possible fire hazard.

The order followed an inspection of all Mansfield public institutions at the request of Harry J. Callan, state fire marshal.

During the last year, the hospital has accommodated a daily average of eight patients in corridors on the first and second floors, Dr. A. O. Fonkalsrud, superintendent, said.

* * *

Special Meeting Called.

As a result of the order, E. W. Loughridge, president of the hospital board, called a special meeting of the advisory committee for tomorrow noon.

"However, just what action we'll take, is yet to be determined," Loughridge said. "We will have to attempt to decide some other course as far as the overflow of patients is concerned."

Members of the advisory committee, besides Loughridge, including Attorney C. H. Huston and Charles Fuchs. Dr. Fonkalsrud will confer with the committee.

The hospital staff advisory committee includes Dr. L. D. Bonar, staff president; Dr. John S. Hattery and Dr. Karl T. Langacher. It is expected the staff committee will meet soon and that definite action on the situation will be taken before the dead-line set by Fire Chief Steele.

* * *

Additions Planned.

Plans are underway for the building of a maternity addition and an X-ray addition, but even those two additions would not solve crowded conditions for other patients. Nor would it provide facilities for handling such an emergency as arose last Friday when scores of persons were admitted for emergency treatment following the Pennsylvania wreck at Coulter.

Although the matter was discussed by board members last night, no definite action will be taken until advisory committees of the board and the hospital staffs have conferred, according to Dr. Fonkalsrud. However, there is no course except to comply with the chief's order.

* * *

193 Patients Daily.

In his monthly report to the board members, Dr. Fonkalsrud said that during November there was a daily average of 193 patients in the hospital; the total number of patients so far this year is 8,123 as compared with 5,923 in the first eleven months of 1945.

Births during November totaled 168 bringing the sum total for the 11-month period to 1,314. In the corresponding 11 months last year, only 1,027 babies were born at the hospital.

During November, 948 patients were cared for at the hospital and 173 accident cases treated.

"All the above figures present a new all-time high in hospital records," Dr. Fonkalsrud said.

SCIENTISTS AIM ROCKETS HIGHER

INYOKERN, Cal.—(INS)—American scientists, probing cosmic ray secrets from heights of nearly eight miles, were planning today to climb even higher—to a "ringside seat" for Mother Nature's "Sunday punch."

In the very near future methodical recordings of cosmic showers will be taken by the soaring physicists almost 20 miles above sea level.

Some time after that, rocket flights of more than 100 miles into space, for a still closer view of the mighty cosmic spectacle, are contemplated.

One of the top men of the present project, Dr. Carl D. Anderson, disclosed that cosmic ray measurements already have been taken at 100-mile level by instruments installed in the warheads of the German V-2 rockets shot up from the New Mexico desert.

The scientists' plan to go up higher than man ever has before risen was revealed by Col. Robert C. Walton, USMC.

SENATOR CALLS FOR STABILITY

Taft Urges Business, Labor To Use Reason in Wage, Price Demands.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Senator Taft (R-Ohio) today called on business to keep prices down and on labor to refrain from "unreasonable" wage demands to avoid any possible economic depression in 1947.

Taft, who heads the policy-making Republican steering committee of the senate, told a reporter he thought President Truman's economic advisers should have placed more stress in their first annual report on the "tremendous responsibility" of labor and management to keep prices and wages in line.

Mr. Truman, who made the report public at his news conference yesterday said he doesn't agree with his advisers' suggestion that there may be a "dip" in business next year.

The outlook for the country is good and will continue to be good, the chief executive told a questioner, if we can just get people to stay at work. He added that nobody wanted any strikes at all, and that he didn't think any of the recent ones were necessary.

The president said he would make specific recommendations to congress on legislation to carry out the proposals of his advisers, who cautioned that a more than ordinarily favorable outlook for jobs and production in the next few years ought not to lull government officials into a "drifting" policy.

As a member of the senate-house committee charged with acting on the president's economic recommendations before February 1, Taft said he was in accord with the council's observation that any threatened setback would be overcome by "courageous and sensible action" on the part of business and labor.

Encouraging Sign.

"It is encouraging to find a government commission stating so soundly the general principles underlying continued employment and prosperity," the Ohio senator commented, "but I doubt if it lays sufficient stress on the tremendous responsibility resting on business to keep its prices down and on labor to refrain from unreasonable demands for increased wage rates."

Taft said he saw nothing in the report requiring immediate congressional action, although he had indicated he would support actively some changes in the laws regulating labor-management relations. The president said he intended to state to congress any changes he may want in labor laws.

CITY VA OFFICE TO REMAIN OPEN

Many Mansfield veterans are confusing the Veterans' Information center with the Veterans Administration, G. D. Weidemaier, manager of the VA subregional office, said today.

"As the result of a recent notice in the paper to the effect that the Veterans' Information center would close Dec. 31, many veterans have been coming to this office seeking records and information which are handled by the VIC," he said.

"I should like to emphasize that the Veterans Administration is a government agency handling matters of insurance and on the job and institutional training. The Veterans Information center is a local agency which was set up as a referral bureau.

"As I understand it, the records of that agency are to be transferred to the Soldiers' and Sailors' Relief commission when the VIC closes. Therefore, veterans who have been seeking information from the VIC and have had dealings with it should continue to go to its office on the fourth floor of the Walpark building where they will receive the proper information or be directed to other sources."

'ACCIDENT' RULING CLOSES DEATH CASE

NEWARK—(AP)—A coroner's verdict of accidental death has halted police investigation into the case of Mrs. Frank Rodamer, 35, whose body was found cut in two on Pennsylvania roalroad tracks west of here before dawn Monday.

Coroner George Wisapp theorized that Mrs. Rodamer's car overturned, and in her quest for aid, she wandered dazedly onto the tracks and was killed by a train.

Police Chief Christman said Mrs. Radamer and her husband joined friends at a restaurant Sunday evening before she took him to catch a train for Chicago at 10:15 p. m Later, he said she rejoined friends, went with them to a cafe, and was seen last by one of the group she drove to his home at 2 a. m. The police chief did not identify the man.

THIRTY-FIVE ROUNDS ON AMATEUR FIGHT CARD

Sports Parade

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK—(UP)—Maj. Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, the U. S. Military academy superintendent, came up today with a fine three-point program for cleaning up college football—but it won't work.

The general suggested taking athletic control away from the athletic directors and turning it over to the college presidents; periodic open house on the college financial books, and definite assurance that athletes are bona fide students working earnestly for degrees.

It won't work simply because General Taylor is one of the two college presidents in the nation who outrank their athletic directors. Lawrence (Biff) Jones, keeper of the footballs at West Point, is only a colonel.

"I'd like to see Biff tell me what our athletic policy is going to be," the general laughed, the two stars glinting on his shoulder.

Jones smiled self-consciously behind the general, probably thinking, at the same moment, about his days at Nebraska. They don't have generals there.

Taylor, who was involved in a rhubarb sometime ago with the powers-that-be at Mississippi State over who stole who's football player, has a fine program there. The only thing is that it's like the ethics they teach you in business school, codes of conduct which survive about 29 minutes on Wall Street.

Coaches undoubtedly would be in favor of having the college president responsible for the school athletic program. For the first time in years they could sleep peacefully at night, directing the alumni wolfpack with graceful gestures in the general direction of the president's study. The mortality rate among football educators would drop tremendously and the rate conversely leap among the ranks of the presidents.

It probably would get so bad that football coaches would have to carry their own presidents with them.

As for periodic checkups on the financial books of the various colleges it would be, to say the least, very interesting.

The current rate of swivel-hipped halfbacks and keg-legged guards, to corn some phrases, would be entertaining and educational. The salaries in some places probably would cause creation of a new college degree of BF, bachelor of football being a career all in itself after which said student retired to a life of ease.

'Feds' Enter Pro Grid Probe

NEW YORK —(INS)— Federal agents entered today the investigation of the attempt to "fix" the championship football game between the New York Giants and the Chicago Bears.

Agents of the Bureau of Internal Revenue were reported probing the New Jersey betting ring for which Alvin J. Paris is alleged to have been "front man."

Meanwhile Jerome Zapowitz, 28, described by police as a gambler was held in the Tombs prison in default of $10,000 bail as the newest figure to appear in the investigation.

Zapowitz was identified by police as one of the men Paris had talked to on the telephone regarding football and other bets. Police had tapped Paris' telephone lines. The cops still hope to question two other men who talked over Paris' tapped line.

Boston Red Sox Rate as Top Fielders In American League

By LES CONKLIN

NEW YORK—(INS)—You'd never suspect it from the way the club went to pieces against the St. Louis Cardinals in the world series, but the Boston Red Sox led the American league in fielding last season.

The veteran Rudy York at first base and Bobby Doerr at second set the pace at their positions as the Sox compiled a team average of .977 to top New York and Cleveland by two points.

The American league record for all teams through an entire season also was equalled during the past season with an overall mark of .973.

Boston's pitching and power overshadowed its fielding in the headlines as the club spread-eagled the field in the pennant races, but release of the official figures today show the vital part York, Doerr and the rest of the Sox played afield in the run to the championship.

While Charlie Stevens, of the St. Louis Browns, topped the first basemen with a mark of .995 for 120 games, York finished only one point behind in playing the full schedule and led the league in most chances, 1,451 and in most assists, 116.

Doerr handled the most putouts and most assists among second basemen for a total of 916 chances with only 13 errors for an average of .986. He also participated in most double plays, 129.

Lou Boudreau, of Cleveland, topped the shortstops with 742 chances, only 22 errors and an average of .970, while George Kell, of Detroit, led the third basemen. He made only seven errors in a top total of 415 chances to finish with an average of .983, or a point behind the league record established by Willie Kamm in 1933.

Walter Judnich, of the St. Louis Browns, handled 417 chances and made only two errors to field at a .995 gait for leadership among outfielders.

Warren Rosar, of Philadelphia, broke the major league record for highest fielding percentage among catchers by playing through 117 games without an error.

He also had nine errorless games left over from the previous season for a streak of 126 in a row, another record, and during that stretch he set a mark of 648 consecutive errorless chances.

THIRTY-FIVE ROUNDS ON AMATEUR FIGHT CARD

Sports Parade

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK—(UP)—Maj. Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, the U. S. Military academy superintendent, came up today with a fine three-point program for cleaning up college football—but it won't work.

The general suggested taking athletic control away from the athletic directors and turning it over to the college presidents; periodic open house on the college financial books, and definite assurance that athletes are bona fide students working earnestly for degrees.

It won't work simply because General Taylor is one of the two college presidents in the nation who outrank their athletic directors. Lawrence (Biff) Jones, keeper of the footballs at West Point, is only a colonel.

"I'd like to see Biff tell me what our athletic policy is going to be," the general laughed, the two stars glinting on his shoulder.

Jones smiled self-consciously behind the general, probably thinking, at the same moment, about his days at Nebraska. They don't have generals there.

Taylor, who was involved in a rhubarb sometime ago with the powers-that-be at Mississippi State over who stole who's football player, has a fine program there. The only thing is that it's like the ethics they teach you in business school, codes of conduct which survive about 29 minutes on Wall Street.

Coaches undoubtedly would be in favor of having the college president responsible for the school athletic program. For the first time in years they could sleep peacefully at night directing the alumni wolfpack with graceful gestures in the general direction of the president's study. The mortality rate among football educators would drop tremendously and the rate conversely leap among the ranks of the presidents.

It probably would get so bad that football coaches would have to carry their own presidents with them.

As for periodic checkups on the financial books of the various colleges it would be, to say the least, very interesting.

The current rate of swivel-hipped halfbacks and keg-legged guards, to corn some phrases, would be entertaining and educational. The salaries in some places probably would cause creation of a new college degree of BF, bachelor of football being a career all in itself after which said student retired to a life of ease.

Bedtime Stories

—By Thornton W. Burgess

THE FEATHERED BOMBS

Tap, tap, tap, tap. The sound was faint, very faint, but good ears heard it, ears that understood what it meant. "A Grouse under the ice, trapped by this crust that formed in the night!" exclaimed Farmer Brown's boy as he listened to make sure just where that faint tapping was coming from." So that is what Reddy Fox was listening to and why he is still hanging around. He knows as well as I do what that tapping means. He knows that there is a bird down in the snow trying to peck through the crust, and when I saw him pawing at the crust before he saw me he was trying to break through to get that bird." He continued to stand there listening.

"Two of them! he exclaimed." I wonder if they are old Thounderer and Mrs. Grouse. I thought they were too old and wise to be caught like this. It is well that I came over here today for to judge by the faintness of this one's pecking he or she is getting weak. These ice storms are tough on ground birds. A lot of them do get trapped and are helpless, held prisoners until they starve to death. I guess if everybody knew how quickly a bird can starve to death more folks would put out food for them in bad weather. Hello! It is old Thunderer down there in the snow for there he is! An there is Mrs. Grouse!

Sure enough these old acquaintances had appeared from among the trees a short distance away. They were walking. They stopped and with heads held high stood watching him. After a moment or two of this Thunderer whirred up in a tree. Mrs. Grouse moved about uneasily then joined Thunderer. They were facing Farmer Brown's boy.

"They are watching me to see what I will do. I guess they know about these trapped birds, their children probably. And I guess they know I'll try to help. It is wonderful how birds and animals know when one is trying to help and when one isn't; when to be afraid and when not to be," thought he.

He put down the bag of grain he had been carrying. From his belt he took the small axe he so often had found handy when in the woods. Then once more he listened for that tapping. When he heard it he carefully located the place it seemed to come from. First he heard the tapping farthest from him, but he didn't move, just fixed in his mind the place it seemed to come from. He was waiting for the Grouse nearest to him to tap again. He would release this one first, then free the other.

He waited so long that he began to be fearful that this bird might have become too weak or too discouraged and hopeless to peck at that crust any more. At long last he heard what he had been listening for, that faint tap, tap, tap. It seemed to come from close to him. Around this spot he began breaking the crust with his axe. With no warning whatever there was an explosion almost in his face. Anyway that is what it seemed like. It threw snow in his face. Although he was prepared for it it was so startling that he almost fell over backward.

"A feathered bomb," he chuckled as he watched a big brown bird fly up in a tree.

A few minutes later the same thing happened at the place where he had heard that other tapping. He stood up shaking the snow from his coat. "It is a good thing they are not land mines, exploding in my face as they did. I wonder if any more are around here," thought he.

He stood for a while listening but heard no more tapping. Finally he picked up the bag of grain and went on to the brush shelter he had made late in the fall. Under this there was no crust, only light snow that had blown in. This he brushed out. For a few feet in front of the shelter he cleared away the snow. Then he spread the grain on the ground both inside and outside. He knew those Grouse would come there as soon as he was out of sight.

The next story: "Farmer Brown's Boy Goes Back."

BLAZE DESTROYS GRAIN ELEVATOR

MINNEAPOLIS —(AP)—A spectacular fire, with flames shooting more than 150 feet into the air and visible for several miles, destroyed the Union Elevator filled with nearly 3,000,000 bushels of grain today. Early reports were that the elevator was filled with barley and at current market prices the loss was expected to run into more than $3,000,000.

A general alarm was sounded when the fire broke out after midnight and firemen from neighboring St. Paul were sent to man stations in the early morning hours as most of the city's fire equipment was sent to fight the conflagration in the 80-foot tall, two-block long structure.

The fire was brought under control after about four hours although it was expected to burn for several days.

3 PRISONERS ELUDE POLICE

PHILADELPHIA —(INS)— Police centered a search in Philadelphia today for three of six insane army prisoners who fled from Valley Forge General hospital on Tuesday.

One fugitive returned to the hospital voluntarily after two others were captured near Washington's headquarters at Valley Forge. He was Frank L. Lofton, 26, of Saginaw, Mich.

The recaptured convicts were Howard Boggs, 28, of Huntington, W. Va., and Curtis L. Fogarty, 24, of Appalachia, Va. They were unarmed and clad in blue denim hospital pajamas.

Hospital authorities said the three still at large are Joseph Bruno, 28, of Staten Island, N. Y.; Henry F. Keller, 28, of Newark, N. J., and Gerald Brant, of Berlin Heights, O. All were serving long terms or life sentences for major offenses.

Meanwhile terror-stricken residents of Phoenixville and other towns adjoining the hospital protested against the confinement of dangerous mental cases in the army institution.

In Washington, a war department spokesman said there were 300 "psychotic" cases now under treatment in a locked ward at Valley Forge. He said the army does not consider them as "insane criminals."

OPRIAN ACQUITTED

AKRON—(AP)—Nick Oprian, 26, was acquitted last night of a charge of first degree murder in the shooting of Chris Manos, Akron gambler, in an automobile last June 23.

RICHARD CASE, left, 18-year-old serving time in a prison road camp near Los Angeles, is hospitalized after confessing to authorities that he swallowed eight bedspring locks and a broken thermometer in order to get out of working at the camp. X-ray shows hardware in Case's stomach. (International).

An apple a day is supposed to "keep the doctor away"—but at the present price of apples the saving is not great.

One forecast is to the effect that: "The farmer of tomorrow will be more like a busy executive"—that is, of course, if he can find someone else to do the actual work.

It's too late for "early Christmas shopping"—and when you see something you want you'd better buy it quickly or you may hear the clerk say: "Sorry, but that was the last one in stock."

Stassen Says He's a Candidate

WHILE a considerable "play" has been given to Harold Stassen's frank avowal that he is a candidate for the 1948 Republican presidential nomination, there was actually not the slightest element of real "news" in the announcement. It has been very generally recognized, ever since 1944, that Stassen was an aspirant for the 1948 nomination, that he reflects more progressive thinking than is to the liking of the GOP "Old Guard," and that considerable time will be required for a build-up of delegate support sufficient to make him a formidable contender at the next national Republican convention.

The present situation is somewhat remindful of that in 1940, when the well-oiled wheels of national convention procedure were thrown out of gear by the sudden ascendency of Wendell L. Willkie as "the man of the hour," with the exception that Stassen has followed a consistently Republican course and that his public career thus far presents a record of unqualified success.

No more surprising than announcement of the Stassen candidacy is the disavowal of candidacy by Senators Taft and Vandenberg, and the "no comment" reply of Governor Dewey to a direct question on the subject. It is unlikely, even, that Senator-elect Bricker would come right out and say—at this time—that he hopes, above all things, to land the 1948 presidential nomination.

Being so frank about such things is not in accord with traditional methods in the circle of old-line party politics, which probably accounts for the extra attention being given Harold Stassen's departure from routine.

Readiness For Unexpected Is Necessary

EXCEPT for those who were intimately associated with the tragic occurrence, either as among those injured or as those who participated in some phase of the rescue or relief work, thoughts of last Friday's disastrous train wreck within a few miles of Mansfield appear to have lost much of the intensity of feeling that marked the day of the catastrophe and the couple of succeeding days.

Investigations will continue, and eventually disclose—perhaps—the cause of what is called an "accident," but which, in reality, evidences either human or mechanical weakness, despite constant efforts to eliminate hazards from railroad transportation.

Most impressive, however, was the demonstration of quick co-ordination of various services and agencies required in dealing with such an emergency, and it is a matter of regret that the names of all who participated in the excellent work could not be secured and mentioned, with deserved tribute to each.

All that could be done was to make reference, with sincere appreciation, of the efficiency of various groups—the willing helpers at the scene of the wreck, the untiring work of doctors and nurses, the immediate adaptation of hospital facilities to needs, the quick action by the state highway patrol, the prompt service of ambulances from Mansfield and other cities, the thoughtful and prompt administration of Red Cross relief, and others who aided either as groups or individuals.

While all will hope that catastrophes of this or other kinds do not happen again, it must be taken into account that there can be no assurance of that kind, and readiness to meet such unforeseen occurrences is a part of community responsibility that should not be minimized.

From Dunkirk to Dunquerque

GOOD WILL on a large scale is no doubt more effective than smaller efforts with more personal significance. Organizations like UNRRA and the Red Cross receive well-merited support from all social-minded citizens. But the appeal which touches hearts and brings the most fruitful results is the appeal which ties in with our own lives in some way.

The gift recently sent from the city of Dunkirk, N. Y., to Dunquerque, France, is a case in point. The people of the American city, touched by the story of their sister city's sufferings during the war, decided to show their sympathy in a practical manner. Gifts valued at $75,000 were gathered together, including tools, seed, clothing, food, medicine, surgical and dental supplies and paint. Also in the good will offering were a herd of good breeding cattle, due to produce calves next spring, and some prize-winning dray horses.

Here is a concrete bit of helpfulness from the United States which citizens of the older Dunquerque will understand. It will bring a warm glow of friendship from the French and it will bring satisfactions, also, to the American Dunkirk citizens.

Experiment In Water Conservation

MORE than 1,000 earth-banked dams have been built in Gage county, Nebraska, to provide water holes for grazing cattle, and to act as flood control and soil-erosion safeguards. Though the necessary bulldozers were scarce, a score were located, their purchase financed by local banks and their operation put in the hands of World War II veterans. A small dam was built within a couple of days, larger ones took longer.

Farmers were partially reimbursed for the dams' cost by the Agricultural Conservation Association with offices in Beatrice, operating under the federal conservation program. A large dam near Filley, Neb., for example, ultimately cost the farmer only $120 and serves not only the farm where it lies, but several that adjoin it. Gage county farmers are planning to build more dams in the spring. Virtually the entire county is concerned with this co-operative venture.

The problem of water control, drainage and soil-erosion, not to mention water for farm animals, is a practical one of interest everywhere. The Nebraska county's plan is in line with the most modern standards of agricultural procedure and will be an inspiration in many localities.

As nearly as can be learned, few "featherbeds" are now in use, except those required as a soft spot for standby musi- [illegible] other surplus employes.

Russia Nearly Got A-Bomb Data While Senator Connally Dozed

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—For two decades historians have claimed that Woodrow Wilson killed his own peace treaty by failing to take the chairman of the senate foreign relations committee with him to Paris. Failure to recognize the senate, historians have said, jeopardized the peace of the world.

Judging from the final days of United Nations debate and the antics of Senator Tom Connally however, Woodrow Wilson was right. The chairman of the foreign relations committee, no matter how stentorian in senate debate and no matter how popular among his colleagues, is not equal to the rapier repartee of diplomatic doubletalk.

For, thanks to Texas Tom Connally, the United States was almost placed in a position of giving information on the atomic bomb to the United Nations by January 1. Here's how it happened:

Connally was representing the United States during the general assembly debate on large standing armies, during which Russia had proposed that all countries disclose the size of their armies of occupation in non-enemy countries.

This, of course, was an attempt to expose alleged British and American imperialism, and the American delegation shot back with a proposal that the size of all armies be disclosed regardless of where stationed. This, in turn, was an attempt to smoke out the size of the Red army not only at home, but in Germany, Austria, Hungary, and the Balkans.

Connally Acts Alone.

When all this came up for debate, the United States was represented by Senator Connally, and legal adviser Charles Fahy. The rest of the U. S. delegation was at a diplomatic dinner given by Jimmy Byrnes at the Waldorf. Molotov was invited to this dinner, but perhaps knowing Connally would be alone and unsupported on the floor of the United Nations, he skipped the dinner and decided to tackle Texas Tom.

Britain was represented by eager-beaver Sir Hartley Shawcross, noted more for oratory than diplomacy, who lit a fire under Molotov by proposing a system of international inspection which would penetrate the iron curtain and eliminate the veto.

"We are quite willing," Shawcross said, "to allow Russian agents to come to England, to go to our bases, to verify our figures the moment Russia agrees to the same arrangement for . . . a verification committee to go into their country and verify the information that has been given them. What could be fairer than that?"

"But," replied Molotov, "we have submitted such a proposal long ago."

Molotov then said that if Britain accepted a proposal that all countries disclose armaments as well as troops, he would support it. This was the bait that trapped Shawcross. Springing to his feet, Shawcross rushed to the microphone and said:

"I am prepared to meet Mr. Molotov's challenge."

Molotov Is Delighted.

Shawcross then proposed establishment of an international inspection organization free of the veto to which all armaments and troop information would be reported. This delighted Molotov.

Senator Connally apparently wasn't following the debate, and Shawcross didn't realize the full implications.

For what he proposed meant that the United States would have to give a detailed accounting of every atomic bomb in its possession. Thus, the United Nations, including Russia, would have our most cherished secret.

"I think this is going to be a very historic occasion," said Sir Hartley, still oblivious to what he had proposed, "and I am very glad and proud to take part in it, for I think we are now going to secure agreement on the establishment of a real international commission for the supervision and inspection of the armed forces and armaments of every power."

This should have been Connally's cue to stall. Instead, he remained in his chair. Hurriedly, U. S. aides attempted to reach Secretary Byrnes by phone. Oddly enough, it was the French delegate, M. Dejean, who came to the rescue by asking for time. Molotov, however, plowed straight ahead.

"I think I can take it that Sir Hartley Shawcross adopted the amendment I moved," Molotov declared, "and I urge the general assembly to approve this proposal."

By this time members of the British delegation were trying to flag down Shawcross. Molotov had agreed to lift the iron curtain, permit free inspection and abandon the veto. However, the Anglo-American blueprint was not prepared for this. It was a tight spot.

Spaak Gets Excited.

While Connally sat in his chair, Belgian U. N. Assembly president, Paul Spaak, finally reached for the burning chestnuts.

"Do you gentlemen realize what we are going to do now?" he asked excitedly.

Spaak pointed out that if the council voted for the Molotov-Shawcross proposal, all governments would have to furnish all the information on arms and troops in a matter of days—by Jan. 1. However, Shawcross, afire with his own words, rushed forward.

"I am very glad that I am able to say it—" he continued, "that the Soviet Union is in agreement in principle with my proposal. I am in agreement in principle with their proposal. We will get the whole thing together tomorrow and put it before the assembly, and, I hope, adopt it unanimously. And so tonight will, after all, still remain a rather historic night."

What Shawcross didn't know was that he had set off a diplomatic atomic bomb all his own. Barney Baruch, who has flatly refused to budge an inch on his own atomic bomb ideas, hit the ceiling. When he heard what had happened, he demanded that Jimmy Byrnes torpedo the Anglo-Russian agreement. Later Shawcross received a dressing-down from Ernest Bevin and wound up with the neckname, "Sir Hartley Double-cross."

Next day Baruch's Wall Street advisers, Ferdie Eberstadt and John Hancock, drafted an amendment to the Shawcross-Molotov agreement which Connally was forced to introduce. It read: "Nothing herein contained shall alter or limit the resolution of the general assembly creating the Atomic Energy Commission." This, of course, referred to Baruch's organization.

The Russians, thanks to Connally and Shawcross, had made the United States look like the "evil giant" who refused to go along on disarmament.

"Strange Bedfellows."

It is to a noted American editor, publisher, author and lawyer, Charles Dudley Warner, that we are indebted for the saying which has become something in the nature of a native proberb, "Politics makes strange bedfellows" The line first appeared as a sort of aside in one of his lesser-known works.

Charles Dudley Warner attracted attention in the 1860s as a newspaperman serving as editor of the Hartford (Connecticut) Press. He was an inveterate traveler as well as writer and his observations on a trip through America and Europe appeared first in his newspaper in 1868-9 and a year later in book form, entitled "My Summer In A arden." It was in this book having nothing to do with politcs, that he used the expression, "Politics makes strange bedfellow[illegible]

Element of Humor In Bilbo Conniving.

WASHINGTON — "Looks like the long way around would have been the cheap way home," whispered one spectator with a grin.

"Reckon that must be the highest-priced toll road in the world," cracked another.

"This is the best show in town," chuckled a third.

All of which is by way of explaining why the majority of the big crowd seems to be present at the senate hearings into the war contract relationships of Mississippi Senator Theodore G. Bilbo.

Of course, wander among any day's crowd and you find many who are there for specific reasons—not counting senators, lawyers, witnesses and reporters. Colonels C. C. Fenn and Ervin R. G. Saltzman, for instance, will tell you quite frankly that they're hanging around to see that "nobody starts shooting at the army when we're not looking."

Colonel Fenn thinks anybody who believed Bilbo did them any good by influencing the war department to swing war contracts probably was dreaming foolish dreams.

"Still, though," he adds, "all this should serve as a good warning to all of us never to be influenced that way!"

U. S. Special Policeman J. M. Griffith said he was off duty and just visiting, but still you got the idea he wasn't just an ordinary visitor, and Paul Stickler, attorney and assistant staff director for the atomic energy committee, had specific reasons for being on hand.

So did Quinten Barbee, Negro reporter for the Pittsburgh Courier, although another reporter was covering the story for his paper.

But most spectators seemed to be in the category of Russell Kaphart, retired Maryland farmer, and Mrs. B. Walsh of Washington who said they were on hand because it "was interesting."

It certainly was. Sometimes it got downright hilarious—if you could overlook the undercurrents and the issues at stake.

For instance, the situation which brought the crack about the high-priced toll road was the long parade of war contractors who, seemingly unconsciously, told the committee that they "just happened to be driving by the senator's place, suh," when they noticed something or other he needed and volunteered to supply it.

The man who put an estimated $9,172.90 into digging a lake for the senator "just happened to drive by and saw the senator with one man and two boys trying to do a job."

The man who dug his swimming pool "just happened to drive by" and found the senator "messin' around with one old mule," while the man who wound up doing the cement work on the pool—a mere $1,194.90, but really a $1,500 job, suh—caught a glimpse of the senator struggling along with a little ol' one-sack cement mixer. As he was passing by, that is.

Although the senators quizzed him quizzically—while the crowd roared—the contractor, who sunk a couple of thousand dollars or so into painting "Dream House No. 1," swore the senator wasn't actually "up on a step-ladder, waving one small paint brush" when he passed by.

However, he admitted ruefully that every time he paused it cost him plenty—once paying a $3,000 donation to the church Bilbo kept passing the hat to build, and another time a $500 note some of the senator's friends had signed to buy Christmas furniture for the "Dream House"—but it all was voluntary and in the spirit of friendly giving, of course.

Still, some nodded agreement with one senator's sarcastic query as to whether it wouldn't have been cheaper to have taken a slight detour around the dream plantation when traveling back and forth across Mississippi—and the crowd howled.

With all the deadly serious phases of the hearing, there never seemed to be a session without some such remark as that of the contractor who stoutly denied getting a letter from Bilbo asking for a contribution to his private church-building fund. Why, then, did he make a donation?

"Well, suh, I heard he was needing more money foh that purpose, suh, and I says 'The senator sure is having a hell of a time getting his church built!'"

Even Bilbo's lawyer laughed!

Qualities That Make "the Best Presidents."

WASHINGTON — During post-war periods, such as the present, there is always talk of a military hero for president.

It is human and understandable. People come to look up to such men in a war era. Military commanders achieve great personal glamor. Furthermore, in the uncertainty which follows a war, a military man has the aspects of stability, dependability and self-reliance.

When people are unsure of themselves, they are tempted to cast their troubles and their responsibilities on some figure who looks strong and a little like the statue in the park about which the rains and the snows and the storms break in vain.

There is an inclination, too, when people are unsettled and disturbed and tired of government restrictions, such as those we necessarily imposed upon ourselves in the war, to look in another direction, toward some big figure in business and say:

"Let's have a businessman run the government."

This tendency was noted by the writer in a pre-election tour. It was the groping, in the midst of confusion, for what we call "a practical man," and that is typically American.

After World War I Herbert Hoover attracted lots of notice. He had performed a big job for the government as food administrator, and he was the businessman type. Only, at that time, Mr. Hoover couldn't decide quickly enough whether he was a Democrat or a Republican, and the politicians like men who can answer that right off, without thinking, and without having to prove it.

After that other war, too, there was talk of General Pershing, which he shut up pretty quickly. But Gen. Leonard Wood became a candidate at the 1920 Republican convention, and a formidable one.

Wendell Willkie, who was a lawyer in the front office of big business, came along suddenly in 1940 to catch the public fancy—a new and exciting figure—and to such an extent that the Republicans finally had to nominate him.

There is much talk about General Eisenhower. In 1944, there was talk among Republicans about General MacArthur. Nobody seems to know to what party General "Ike" belongs—if he knows, himself — so there is talk in both parties.

But most talk is among Democrats, and undoubtedly it springs partly from the anxiety of a party now down in the mouth to find a winner, a desperate and frantic reaching-out for a glamorous hero. It was that same sort of attitude that promoted some Republicans in 1944 to cast covetous glances toward General MacArthur in a desperate attempt to beat Franklin D. Roosevelt.

No matter how disgruntled we sometimes get with politicians, politics is a distinct profession. Experience has demonstrated that politicians make the best presidents.

Through what is sometimes a tough school, they learn and develop a technique of dealing with each other, and dealing with the people in their political capacity. They acquire a sense of public psychology and reaction, and how to direct it, which is invaluable. Military men don't have it. Neither do businessmen, as we learned during the Hoover administration.

Military men give orders and expect them to be obeyed. Big businessmen issue directives and punch buttons. That just doesn't work in politics, nor with people operating in a political system such as ours, with its checks and balances.

This is a rather fundamental issue in our democracy.

Here's How You Can Send a Food Package.

WASHINGTON—On your last-minute Christmas list there should be a reminder to send a food package to hungry Europe. It can be done by sending a check or a money order for $10 to CARE, Inc., at 50 Broad street, New York City.

You can send your package to an individual in any one of 11 European countries, and you will get back a receipt signed by the donee. If it cannot be delivered, you will get your money back.

If you know no individual to send a CARE package to, it can be sent to an institution such as an orphanage or a hospital, or merely to a particular country. For your $10, you get a minimum of 29 pounds of food — meat, cereal, biscuits, fruit jam, vegetables, butter, cheese, sugar, cocoa, coffee — and soap, matches and a few cigarets in addition.

You could not buy these same foods for that price at your own grocery store. In many countries in Europe, they could not be bought at all except on the black market for a staggering price. The package is the army's famous "10-in-1," designed by the Quartermaster corps and packed during wartime. CARE made a fortunate purchase of these packages from the War Assets Administration.

Organized a year ago, CARE is now filling about 9,000 orders a day. The service has been set up so efficiently in some countries—Holland and Belgium, for example—that a package can be delivered in four days to a week after your order is placed.

The director of CARE is Lt. Gen. William N. Haskell, who was with the American relief administration after World War I. He helped to organize UNRRA after the last war.

In comparison to the need, the total volume of food going abroad in this way is not large. But it is of great importance nevertheless, because it keeps alive the principle of voluntary giving which is one of our deepest and truest traditions. Europeans are reminded that we do care about their plight even though the political debaters sometimes try to would melt a heart of stone.

In the files of CARE, which is short for the Cooperative for American Remittances to Europe, Inc., are letters of gratitude that would melt a heart of stane..

Many organizations in this country have pooled their funds to send to similar organizations abroad. Thus, a group of postal workers sent packages to postal employes. Scientific groups have sent food to their fellow scientists.

Not long ago, CARE marked its first anniversary. Jan Masaryk, foreign minister of Czechoslovakia, spoke about the continuing need for food in Europe. While November 27 is the anniversary date, it was actually not until May 9 that the first packages reached Europe. Before this could happen, it was necessary to obtain an agreement with the War Assets Administration to buy the 10-in-1 food parcels. Then it was necessary to conclude agreements with the various European governments so that the packages could enter duty free and with as little red tape as possible.

Farmer's Diary: "Products of the Soil."

"THE GREATEST harvest of the soil is Man, himself." His bone and muscle, his nerves, his very thoughts come out of the furrows he cultivates. If that soil is good, and whole, it bears upward the noblest qualities of the human race. An individual is not happy when haunted by "hidden hunger."

One quart of milk may have a butter fat content of 5 percent; another 4, a third one, three. That is all the analysis the consumer knows. Yet the whole quality of milk cannot be determined by its butter fat. Carbohydrates, protein and calcium are important, too. That advertisement, "Milk from contented cows," is right to the point. Herds of cattle that graze upon pastures balanced in nitrogen, phosphorus, and potassium, with traces of more than 15 other elements such as iron, cobalt, nickel, magnesium, etc., become thoroughly satisfied and contented. Milk from such cows measures up to the dieticians definition of a "perfect food."

Wheat raised in eastern United States, where rainfall is heavy is "soft." Fertilizers and "trace minerals" leach out more quickly, and often great expanses of top soil are washed into the lowlands, and down the streams to the sea. In the mid-west where rain is scantier, the wheat is "hard"—it has more protein and trace elements, and less starch.

No soil is inexhaustible, under continuous cropping. Even at the beginning of the 19th century, westward trekking pioneers thought the limitless lines of standing forests would last forever. Now—a century and a half later—our standing timber will not meet our housing needs.

All eggs are not the same—and the test of real value is not dependent upon color of shell or size of it. Apples, plums and peaches—all fruits and garden vegetables—cannot be the perfect foods they were meant to be if starved by the soil at the roots. No form of vegetation can manufacture in its stem the elements it lacks in the soil.

Whole nations rise and fall according to the richness or depletion of the soil. No nation is richer than its topsoil. Greece and Rome, great Babylonia, the early American races—Incas and Aztecs—flourished and built great civilizations when the soil was fertile, and disappeared when it became depleted.

Will United States learn in time?

As Others See It

Rather Puzzling.

TOOT'S ALIBIS FAIL HIM IN TRAFFIC COURT

Driver Has Plenty of Answers But He's Fined Anyway.

Perry F. Toot's excuses weren't good enough. At least they didn't save him from a fine and driver's license suspension.

Toot's car collided with William A. Calhoun's auto Tuesday night on Park avenue west. He was booked on a charge of unsafe operation. His case was heard in traffice court yesterday.

Explaining the reasons for the accident, toot said his glasses were no good and the brakes on his car wouldn't hold. And he told also of having two bottles of beer at Lexington.

Furthermore, said Toot, he'd never been in Mansfield before. "I was lost," he argued.

Toot was fined $10 and costs and his license was suspended for 60 days or until he pays for damages to Calhoun's car.

Calhoun is a Mansfield attorney. Toot said he lives at Maple Grove lake, near Mt. Gilead.

Also fined were Fred Ashbrook, Cincinnati, $10 and costs, obstructing free passage of a highway; Benny Jefferson, 261 North Franklin avenue, $10 and costs and 30-day license suspension, unsafe operation.

Jacob Focht, Gladstone, N. D., $5 and costs, failure to observe a stop sign; A. W. Brillhart, Mansfield R. D. 2, $10 and costs, speeding; Richard Roller, Mansfield, R. D. 2, $10 and costs, failure to stop within an assured clear distance.

Wade R. Clow, Mansfield, R. D. 4, $10 and costs and $5 and costs, speeding and inadequate muffler. William C. Hissner, of Wooster, forfeited a $25 bond by failing to appear for hearing on a speeding charge.

REDUCE ACCIDENTS

CLEVELAND — (NS) — High school driver training has reduced accidents one-half among some 2,000 youths given instruction in Cleveland, the American Public Works Association reported recently. This conclusion was based on an analysis of accident and conviction records of 1,880 students who received driver training compared to records of 1,372 students who received no training. The records were analyzed two years after licenses were issued for all students involved.

Truman Pledges 'Hands Off' Policy In Chinese Internal Affairs

U. S. OFFERS AID WITHOUT INTERFERENCE

President Offers Reply to Criticism By Senators.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — President Truman has promised that this country will not interfere in internal Chinese affairs, but will "persevere" in an effort to help the Chinese people toward internal peace and economic recovery.

Mr. Truman, in a statement Wednesday afternoon, expressed "deep regret" that China has not yet achieved unity "by peaceful methods."

But he said, "we are ready to help China as she moves toward peace and genuine democratic government."

Mr. Truman, obviously mindful of some criticism on Capitol Hill because American forces are still in China, said in a 3,000-word statement that while a year ago we had some 113,000 soldiers, sailors and marines in China, today "this number is being reduced to less than 12,000."

The president's statement came after Sens. James E. Murray, D., Mont., and Ralph E. Flanders, R., Vt., had demanded that the United States halt its single-handed efforts to end China's "indecisive civil war." The senators contended that the job of mediating the Chinese conflict should be turned over to a Big Three conference under chairmanship of Gen. George C. Marshall. Marshall has been trying for a year to establish peace in China.

The president said this government still believed "that China has a clear responsibility to the other United Nations to eliminate armed conflict within its territory as constituting a threat to world stability and peace."

City Had No Traffic Problem When R. E. Moorhead Started Selling Cars

Mansfield Dealer Opened Sales Room In 1916.

By AL PREYER

When Ralph E. Moorhead, 55, established the first automobile agency in Mansfield in January, 1916, the city had no traffic problem.

Looking back over 30 years' experience as the longest established automobile dealer in Mansfield, Moorhead recalled how he learned the business "from the ground up."

Born and reared in Findlay, Moorhead went to work at the Chalmers Motor car plant in Detroit shortly after his graduation from Findlay college in 1911.

* * *

"FOR FOUR YEARS I WORKED as an apprentice in production as a mechanic. From that job I went into the sales department," he continued.

"I made my sales debut in the automotive field at a national auto show at the Grand Central Palace, New York city, in 1914. I was what they call a 'chassis lecturer'. I stood wtih a long pointer and explained the workings of the motor and chassis.

"After the New York show I toured the country in the same capacity. I came to Mansfield with the Dodge and Hudson franchises in January, 1916. My original showroom was across the street from the present agency in the place now occupied by Happy Harry's restaurant and the news stand.

* * *

"MY FIRST SALE IN MANSfield was to E. G. Robison, secretary of the National Masonic Provident association. "Prices on my cars were comparable to present day Buick and Packard prices.

"In February, 1918, I closed out my business and entered the Navy during World War I," Moorhead continued. "After the war I obtained my present Ford franchise."

"I've watched a lot of cars come and go," he said. "Just to name a few there were Apperson, National, Westcott, Mitchell, Chalmers and others. Some of them were very good cars, but they lacked a good sales organization and without that they couldn't keep up the pace.

"The progress made by the automotive industry in the accessibility, comfort and economy of cars strikes me as being the most noteworthy achievement in the industry since I have been connected with it.

* * *

"MY FARM IS MY HOBBY," Moorhead said. "I specialize in the raising of pure bred hogs and sheep."

Moorhead, who lives with his family at 22 Western avenue, has quite a record for organizational activity. He has served as past president of the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce, Westbrook Country club, Mansfield Rotary club, and the Ohio and Richland County Automobile Dealers' associations. He is a director of the Richland Trust company and the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

Parking was no problem in 1916 when Ralph E. Moorhead opened the first automobile agency in Mansfield.

MINE OWNERS HOLD SESSION ON PROBLEMS

Operators to Decide Whether to Reopen Talks With Lewis.

WASHINGTON —(INS)— Bituminous operators are meeting in Washington today to canvass the soft coal wage situation and discuss the controversial issue of re-resuming negotiations with John L. Lewis.

The conference represents the first gathering of the operators since mid-November when they were called in by Interior Secretary J. A. Krug and informed of Lewis' 1947 contract demands.

At that time the mine owners agreed to the government's proposal for a resumption of industry-union talks, but Lewis balked. The UMW chief terminated the union's contract with the government and precipitated a 17-day mine shutdown.

Lewis' 1947 demands, as unveiled to Krug last month, called for a 40-hour work week at the same earnings of a 54-hour schedule plus an increase from five to ten cents a ton in the coal "royalty" for the miners' welfare fund.

Subsequently, the UMW chief was understood to have modified his demands to ask for a 48-hour week at 54 hours' pay. This would represent a wage increase of around 20 cents an hour.

There was no assurance that the operators will decide to resume talks with Lewis. Instead, they may merely explore the developments since their last meeting, including the government's legal battle with the UMW.

Protesting Troops Sail to Holy Land

GLASGOW —(INS)— A troopship of British soldiers, who battled military police and officers in an effort to prevent sailing, were on the high seas today en route to assignment in the Far East.

The troopship, Eastern Prince, cast off from a Glasgow quay only after a large-scale riot threatened by the 1,200 troops was quelled. The disturbance began in protest against sailing before Christmas.

Barclay On Bridge

Having your side become the declarer—that is not the object of the game. But players of a certain type bid as if that were the main idea. They seem to resent their opponents getting into the bidding, not realizing that their doing so merely offers an option. It gives you a choice between trying to beat their contract and trying to make one of your own. In close questions, it is well to bear in mind that always the declarer must take a majority of the tricks to score, whereas, if the contract is two or more, the defense requires only a minority to record points.

East opened this, quite soundly, because having slightly more than one-fourth of the total high card strength, he realized his side probably had a bare balance of power. Chances favored his side getting a part score and, if West happened to have good major suit distribution, a possibility for game.

West's bid happened to be somewhat shaded for a free bid over South's diamond overcall, especially at the range of two. But East could not know that. When North stuck in that 2-No Trumps, opportunity was knocking at East's door. He could have doubled it on general principles, or else just played against it. Had he done so, a heart opening, with proper action later, could have got his side three tricks in that suit, one in diamonds, one in spades and two in clubs—a total of seven, setting the contract two.

East should have realized that two original passers had very slight chance to score when his own partner could make a free bid. But he hopefully reached out at 3-Hearts, with the idea that West might go to 4-Hearts. He didn't, however, yet got set a trick by losing two in diamonds and one each in the other suits.

JACK WINTER, right, publisher of a New York fashion magazine, is alarmed, he says, about the tendency of American women to follow revealing Paris fashions, and predicts the trend may lead to the type of evening blouse worn here by Model Dottie McEwen. The material, when dampened, takes on a semi-transparency. (INS)

ROOMING HOUSE FIRE KILLS TWO OHIOANS

DETROIT—(U.P.)—Three persons died yesterday in a fire which gutted a two-story rooming house near downtown Detroit. Five other persons escaped from the blazing structure.

Dead were Mr. and Mrs. Joe Stincel, of Hamilton, O., and Charles Conard, 74, Detroit.

Mrs. Anna McKee, 50, the landlady, said four persons were sleeping on the first floor and four on the second when the fire broke out, apparently on the upper story.

Only 6 Weeks Left to Reinstate Vets' Insurance Without Exam

Mansfield veterans today were advised by the Mansfield subregional office, Veterans' Administration, that they have only until Feb. 1, 1947, to reinstate their term National Service life insurance without having to take a complete physical examination.

Under a new law, any veteran who has let his term insurance lapse may reinstate his policy without a physical examination by paying only two monthly premiums, without interest, regardless of how long the policy has been lapsed. After Feb. 1, a physical examination will be required for reinstatement of all policies which have been lapsed for more than six months.

The contacts office of the Mansfield VA office in the Walpark building will assist any veteran in making application for reinstatement of lapsed insurance or in figuring possible methods of conversion. The office also is prepared to assist veterans in applying for any of the VA benefits, and will answer questions relative to education or training under the GI Bill of Rights, vocational rehabilitation training for veterans with service connected disabilities, pensions or compensation, hospitalization and outpatient medical or dental treatment, loans guaranteed by the VA for the purchase or construction of a home, farm or business or any question about any benefit administered by the Veterans' Administration.

When contacting the VA for reinstatement or conversion of insurance, veterans should bring with them their insurance certificate, and a copy of their discharge or separation papers.

PILOTLESS PLANE PLUNGES IN BAY

BALTIMORE—(INS)—A pilotless airplane took off from the Baltimore airport yesterday, climbed to 1,000 feet, leveled off, and flew 10 miles on a straight course before crashing in Chesapeake bay.

W. A. Byers, navy chief machinist's mate, was to have flown the small monoplane to Minneapolis. He was cranking the engine by hand when the brake slipped and the ship lurched forward.

Byers made a "flying tackle" but failed to halt the plane, which soared into the air after a 300-yard run and climbed steadily before heading out over the bay. The plane crashed in deep water near Miller's island.

More than 150 years elapsed between the discovery of South Africa and establishment of the first European settlement there.

Judge Puts Jury Ahead of Deers

BRIDGETON, N. J. — (INS) — Opening of the deer season was eliminated here as an excuse for dodging jury duty.

Supreme Court Justice Howard B. Eastwood laid down the decree when four potential jurors, one of them clad in full forest attire, begged to be excused.

MOSCOW DELAYS ATOMIC ACTION

LAKE SUCCESS, N Y —(ANS)— A United Nations roll call on the if and how of outlawing the atomic bomb and thereafter controlling atomic energy today awaited final word from Moscow.

The atomic energy commission was in recess until Friday at the insistence of Soviet member Andrei Gromyko who wanted instructions on U S delegate Bernard M Baruch's take-it-or-leave-it formula for removing the atom split as a war menace.

Baruch agreed to the Friday delay after withdrawing a demand for a vote Tuesday He will be back tomorrow with an absolute call for a showdown

Gromyko asked for time to consider the American proposition, although it has been batting around in the atomic energy commission since last June.

BUCYRUS PLANS FIRE ORDINANCE

BUCYRUS — City council had under consideration today a proposed new city fire ordinance which provides for establishment of a fire prevention bureau with wide authority.

The new legislation came before the council at its meeting Tuesday night, but passage was delayed to permit further study of the measure by Fire Chief William F. Mader and Safety Director John Carroll.

Under the proposed ordinance, the fire prevention bureau would make inspections and issue fire prevention orders.

The council adopted a new building code which provides for issuance of building permits for all remodeling in excess of $500. Permits formerly were issued only for new buildings.

Council members heard a complaint on pin-ball machines in Bucyrus, but took no action. Police Chief Arthur Stuckert quoted to the council a ruling from the attorney general to the effect that the machines were not illegal.

PARKING METERS WILL AID DRIVE

ASHLAND—Ashland's 200 parking meters will serve to collect ten-cent contributions to the March of Dimes campaign in January, as well as to receive the regular penny and nickel fees required for parking.

All dimes placed in the meters will be turned over to the Ashland County March of Dimes campaign, Edgar Koehl, jr., chairman, announced today. The campaign is sponsored by the Ashland Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Since dimes pass on through the meters to the coin boxes without registering on the meters, they will not pay for parking time, it was pointed out by city council, which has approved the collection plan.

Signs will be placed on the meters asking for dime contributions to the Infantile Paralysis fund.

Anderson Tells Grange Farm Prices Will Drop Next Year

COLUMBUS—(UP)—The 74th annual convention of the Ohio State Grange today closed its three-day meetings with the installation of officers.

The highlight of the convention was the banquet last night which featured speeches by Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson and Gov.-Elect Thomas J. Herbert and announcement of awards for 1946 achievements.

Anderson said that farm product prices will drop after the fall crops are harvested next year if bumper production continued and the transportation crisis remained unsolved. He revealed that his department had budgeted $19,000,000 for a 1947 research program in marketing, college programs and utilization surveys.

Although a turning down in prices would result if the distribution problem is not solved and American farmers continued to produce hugh crops, Anderson said the farmer's income still would be much higher than in the pre-war period.

Anderson disclosed that the agriculture department now was experimenting in high flying cargo planes to transport crops to markets. He also said that if the problem was found worthy that private capital undoubtedly would establish airlines for the transport of crops.

The secretary of agriculture stressed that the United States had no shortage of markets and said that both the British and Indian governments were seeking to sign wheat shipment agreements with this country.

Roosters, brood hens and non-layers will eat an average of seven pounds of feed each, per month.

Winchell — On Broadway

NEAL LANG says Gen. Ira Eaker's speech in London was the best he ever heard. As Eaker got up to speak at a dinner in his honor (given by the British Air Force), the assemblage sat back and heaved a long sigh.

"Ho, hum," mumbled one, "he'll prob'ly talk for hours."

But Eaker didn't talk a minute. He simply said: "Gentlemen. We won't do any talking until we've done some fighting. And when we go home — we hope you will be glad we came."

Then he sat down. And the applause was like thunder.

We don't know which pleased the public more: Lewis cancelling his strike or Truman cancelling his speech.

In "The Big Two" (now trying out) Philip Dorn, as a Russian soldier, says to Claire Trevor, an American journalist: "We've read all about your sedition trials. All the defendants got free—and only the judge was buried!"

A minor official was defending the Department of Justice's attitude towards fascists.

"Our policies have proven," he contended, "that not all Germans are Nazis."

"The only thing your policies prove," said a reporter, "is that all Nazis aren't German!"

An Editorialist was wondering what had happened to the alleged seditionists who were never brought to trial.

"I'll bet," he ventured, "they're still plotting to change our gov't."

"Why should they?" asked a columnist. "After the Rogge case, they want to keep it just the way it is."

* * *

The attitude of the State Department (towards Fascists) was being defended by a returned occupation officer.

"The way we're handling them," he boasted, "eventually there won't be a Nazi left in Germany."

"Naturally," snapped a reporter. "The Nazis know it's safer in America."

"What!" he bellowed, "Bevin in the Bronx—and only booed?"

"What're you guys picketing for?" moaned the boss. "Our contract has three weeks to run!"

Pegler — Fair Enough

NEW YORK—It certainly is not the duty of our newspapers to act as detective agencies, but it is my belief that we have been careless in our treatment of the rise of gambling in both amateur and professional sports, when we should have been alert. The point-spread system of syndicate betting is a recent development whose sole function is to promote illegal gambling by amateurs, meaning the public, against the professional syndicates. The odds are against the amateurs, or customers, and yet we regularly print these quotations in advance of the games, knowing that the only result is that we act as a sort of accomplice for a tribe of parasitic outlaws who give themselves all the better of it in these figures. I disagree with my colleague. Lewis Burton, of the sports side of the New York Journal-American, when he says, "the news on the odds is as important as the condition of the teams and a reporter failing to note this would be delinquent."

The late Joe Patterson, of the News, had a mischievous streak of cynicism which moved him to insist that "the people" like to gamble and that a newspaper shouldn't police their morals but ought to give them what they want. But he forgot that "the people" also had decided that gambling was an evil and had passed laws against it. They were policing their own morals. I think that is where the defect lies in the reasoning of Mr. Burton and some other sport-side editors and writers who justify the display of these odds on the ground of public demand. At the very best, "the people" are certain to be trimmed, for the proposition is not an even thing and the percentage rides in favor of the men who decide the odds.

* * *

IT IS AN UNDERWORLD ACTIVITY, as every newspaperman knows, and although the lines are not very clearly drawn as yet, we may be sure that if this sort of gambling continues and increases we will find that we have helped to create another arrogant and absolutely defiant underworld system as powerful as the mobs of prohibition days. It could be even more dangerous, because newspaper connivance or encouragement will give these criminals moral support or prestige and their racket is much more facile than bootlegging was.

After all, the bootleggers had to run boats in from Rum Row, a hazardous job that required investment, and their business called for cooking, cutting and bottling plants and stills. These syndicate gamblers require nothing more than a few phones and a little organization. But, given a turnover of one billion five hundred million dollars a season on football alone, which was the volume for the 1946 season reported to me recently by the individual who is recognized by the police, the pulpit and the press as the greatest operator in the trade, this underworld has the power to corrupt not only government, as bootlegging did, but the morality of the campus. This is crooked money and crooked money will bribe its way.

Dick Anderson, the sports editor of the Evansville Press, wrote last Nov. 18:

"To give you some idea of how the boys who pick the football gamblers' bet-sheets get the correct dope, ponder this one. Columbia played Lafayette and Columbia was 'given' 46 points. You could take Columbia and 'give' 46 points or you could take Lafayette and 'get' 46 points. The score was Columbia 46, Lafayette 0. A tie with the points and the cards state 'ties, you lose.'

"If you think that isn't naming the score, you're crazy. And, brother, it wasn't an accident. Those boys get the dope."

Lippmann — Today and Tomorrow

SENATOR VANDENBERG says that from now on he cannot spend so much time abroad. He has too much to do in Washington. Moreover, three-quarters of the time of these conferences is devoted to "spade work" which need not be done by the top men.

Now if the chairman of the foreign relations committee feels he must not be away from Washington for long periods, what about the secretary of state being away for long periods? If Vandenberg cannot afford to spend his time on spade work—on procedure and details—how can Secretary Byrnes afford it?

Vandenberg went on to point out that the bipartisan unity, which has worked so well, is as yet confined to support of the United Nations and the peace settlement in Europe. It does not as yet cover the Far East, Latin America, including Argentina, and Palestine, which means the Middle East.

It covers in fact only the field where Byrnes and Vandenberg have actually worked together. The fields it does not cover—virtually the whole world except central and eastern Europe — are those where foreign policy has been handled—during Byrnes' absence — sometimes by the president, sometimes by subordinates in the state department, sometimes by the navy or the army.

* * *

THE NET of it is that while Vandenberg's relation with Byrnes continue to be excellent, it is only on the subjects where they have worked intimately together that collaboration is assured. No united policy has been worked out for Asia, for the Middle East, for Latin America, and in fact, though Vandenberg did not say so, for Germany and Europe as a whole. It is hard to see how it is going to be worked out if Byrnes is in Moscow while Vandenberg is in Washington.

The dilemma is awkward because Byrnes is so deeply committed to the idea of being himself the negotiator of the peace treaties. He has to go to Moscow because he has promised Foreign Ministers Bevin and Molotov to go, and as things are now arranged, he could hardly go away from Moscow, leaving deputies to negotiate for him, without appearing to break up the council of foreign ministers.

Yet if he stays to negotiate through the whole laborious business of the German and Austrian treaties, he cannot really perform the duties of the secretary of state. They can be performed only if he is in Washington most of the time, in close and direct consultation with the state department, the war and navy departments, the Baruch commission, the White House and congress.

* * *

FOREIGN POLICY cannot be made in a hotel in New York, much less in hotels in Paris and Moscow.

The fact that the Republicans are now the majority party in congress alters greatly the basis on which bipartisan agreement has thus far worked. Until now the Republicans, in the person of Vandenberg, have supported Byrnes actively in the field where they worked together, and have refrained from critical opposition elsewhere. This arrangement will not continue, and Vandenberg has served notice to that effect.

Therefore, if Byrnes wants a united policy in the Far East, the Middle East, Latin America, and for Germany, he will have to spend much more of his time and energy making the policy that can unite the parties. No one else can do that. For the president does not now conduct our foreign relations.

Some way needs to be found, therefore, which will be intelligible and acceptable to Bevin and Molotov, by which Byrnes can be the secretary of state, and not in effect his own ambassador plenipotentiary.

It was a grievous mistake when Wilson became his own negotiator, and yet Wilson was president and could at least give orders to the heads of departments. But Byrnes cannot do that. He is only the head of one department, by no means the only one concerned with foreign relations.

LEGION POST DONATES $100 TO CAMPAIGN

Votes to Aid Friendly House Drive; Hears Reports on Housing Project.

Donation of $100 to the Friendly House campaign highlighted last night's meeting of American Legion McVey post No. 16. The resolution to help the Friendly House drive passed unanimously.

In a report on the status of Vetsville, J. L. Zimmerman reported that there are 40 veteran families there at present and that four more families are moving in.

Completion of some units is being delayed because of the scarcity of double-convenience outlets, Zimmerman said.

A request was made by H. R. Critchfield, who reported on the Legion state commanders' meeting at Columbus, Dec. 7-8, for volunteers to serve as firing squads for the bodies of Mansfield service men to be brought back from overseas, beginning in June, 1947. F. Thane Shaw, reported that between 300 and 400 boys from Richland county "did not come back from the war."

Dale Rowan was appointed by Commander D. A. McCullough to fill the unexpired term of Finance Officer J. T. Geiger who is leaving for Arizona.

The next meeting of the Legion will be held Jan. 15.

BAKER ENTERS INNOCENT PLEA

A 28-year-old Barbourville, Ky., man today pleaded innocent to a charge of shooting with intent to kill, and hearing in municipal court was continued until Saturday. Bond was set at $3,000.

Jasper R. Baker is accussed of shooting Murry B. Campbell, Mansfield, R. D. 4. Police reported Campbell was shot in the leg in September.

Mansfield detectives returned Baker from Barbourville yesterday. He formerly lived at 341 North Mulberry street, according to police records.

Officers said Campbell was shot in the left leg Sept. 24 with a .38 caliber bullet. He was admitted to General hospital for treatment.

Case of John K. Chokreff, Mansfield, R. D. 1, charged with failing to stop after an accident, was continued until Dec. 27.

'POPPING' PARTY HELD BY SCOUTS

Mansfield scouts and cubs combined the Yule spirit with advancement awards in meetings held last night, while things "popped" at one Boy Scout Christmas party.

When the grand prize number was drawn at the Boy Scout Troop No. 2 party in Brinkerhoff school, the 23 boys present found they all held the prize-winning number and were entitled to the prize—pop corn. A "popping" party then was held.

Nine dads enjoyed the fun with the boys. Scoutmaster F. L. Culp was assisted by Maurice Stretch, chairman of the party committee, Forest E. Doner and C. W. Henry. Floyd Dent showed scouting pictures to round out the evenings entertainment.

Cub Pack No. 6 of Mansfield also had a Christmas party and advancement award ceremonies. After an exchange of gifts, Cubmaster, Lowell Bricker presented Bill Schneider and Robert Sundell with their webelos badges and advanced them to Scouthood.

Advancement awards went to Billy Horn, Don Ritter, Jack Schneider, Charles Backman and Don Backman.

HULDA SWIFT, 64, DIES IN HOSPITAL

Mrs. Hulda Swift, 64, governess at the Richland County Children's home, died last night at General hospital after an illness of several weeks.

Mrs. Swift was born in Germany July 15, 1882, but came to America when quite young. She was the widow of Marcus Swift.

Her survivors include two sons, George and Gerald, both of Dayton; two daughters, Mrs. Grace Reed, of Zanesville, and Mrs. Harold Gorsuch, of Mansfield, with whom she made her home and six grandchildren.

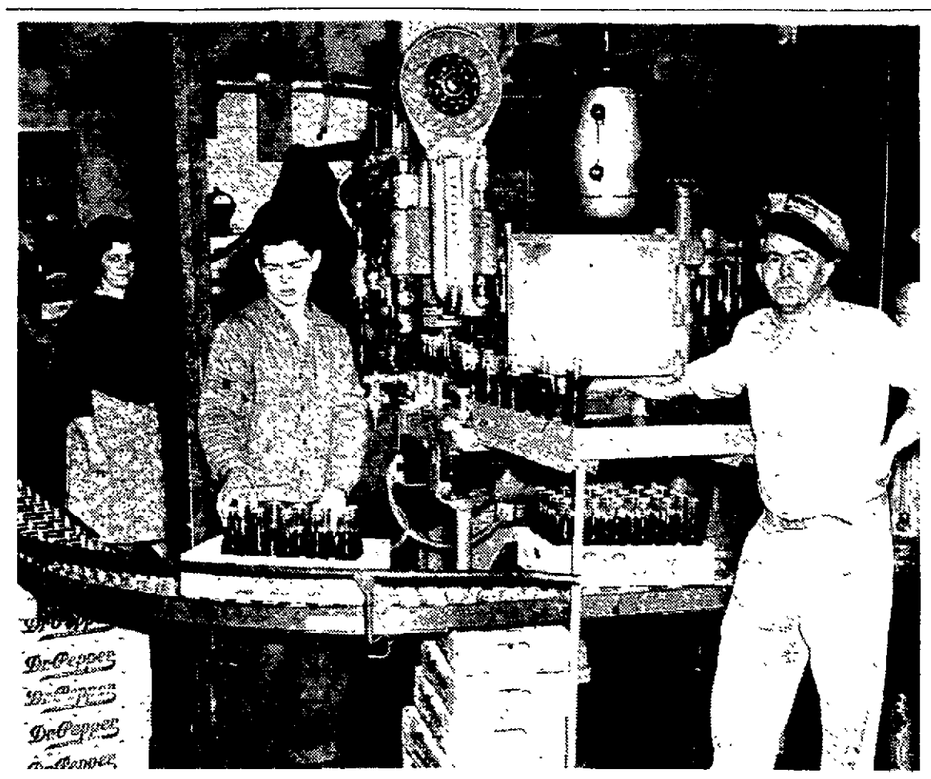
The body was removed to the Wappner funeral home for burial preparation and later will be taken to Zanesville, her former home. Services and burial will be held there Saturday afternoon.

Rites Set for Mrs. Kathurine

Mrs. Leona Kathurine, 80, widow of Tony Kathurine, died Wednesday night in Columbus after a long illness.

Mrs. Kathurine was born in Germany, Feb. 28, 1866, but came to Mansfield 55 years ago. Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. J. Porter Smith, of 245 Richland avenue, with whom she made her home; two grandchildren, and one great grandchild.

Services will be held at the Wappner funeral home at 1 p. m. Saturday in charge of Rev. David N. Roller. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.



BOTTLERS AT WORK—Here is the bottling crew at the new Dr. Pepper bottling and distributing plant in Mansfield. Jack Lysinger (left), 172 North Broadway avenue, Shelby, places empty bottles in a washing and sterilizing machine while Mrs. Tillman Williams, wife of the owner and manger, watches the flow of bottle into the bottling machine, and her son, Dayton Williams, removes filled bottles from the table and places them into a crate on the conveyor. New Dr. Pepper Plant In City To Serve 4 Counties In Area

Opening of a Dr. Pepper bottling and distributing plant at 875 Bowman street was announced today.

The plant, the newest in a growing list of industries for Mansfield, began operations under a franchise to service a four-county territory.

Opened by Tillman Williams, formerly of Birmingham, Ala., it is the first Dr. Pepper bottling and distributing plant in the Mansfield area.

Delayed by the same shortages that other builders have experienced and with some remodeling still to be done, the plant is now able to operate at a capacity of 200 cases per hour.

Hampered by an inadequate sugar quota, Williams is not endeavoring immediately to develop any of the territory much beyond Mansfield's city limits.

To Add Trucks.

Williams had tentative plans for adding six more trucks and salesmen, additional plant workers and a 50-foot extension on the rear of the building. The extension would house equipment, stock and additional machinery, Williams explained.

It was necessary to purchase the more than 20 tons of plant machinery from points as distant as Denver, Colo., since no new bottling machinery is being made now, Williams said.

Obtaining bottles and crates presented another problem. Several thousand have been purchased and borrowed from various points and many more are on order, but no promise of delivery has been forthcoming.

Seeking a House.

In the Mansfield plant, a concentrated stock solution, received from the home office in Dallas, Tex., is mixed with carbonated water and sugar to produce carbonated fruit juice drink that has become popular over most of the southland, but is new to this part of Ohio, Williams explained.

Most urgent problem facing Williams is finding a house for his family.

"We like Mansfield very much; its hills remind us a little of Birmington," Mrs. Williams said. And her husband added, "I don't think we could have chosen a better territory."

Included in the territory which the plant will serve are Richland, Holmes, Knox and Ashland counties.

O'Leary Child Dies Suddenly

Services will be held at 9:30 a. m. Saturday in St. Peters Catholic church for Kathleen O'Leary, three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. O'Leary, Mansfield, R. D. 3, who died suddenly Wednesday afternoon at Mansfield Sanitarium-Hospital. Msgr. R. C. Gobel will officiate.

Surviving, besides her parents, are one sister, Mary Colleen; two brothers, Ronald Thomas and Robert Patrick, all at home; her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John T. O'Leary, East Mansfield, and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wilburn, Chillicothe, and a number of aunts and uncles.

Burial will be in St. Peters' Catholic cemetery. Friends may call at the Geiger funeral home until time for the services.

Christmas Mail Reported Stolen

Postal inspectors today were investigating the theft of a Christmas package from the mailbox of Mrs. Dale Ferrell, Shelby, R. D. 1, yesterday.

Mrs. Ferrell told the sheriff's office that two packages which had been placed in the box by the mailman yesterday morning were missing. Deputies found one of the boxes in a nearby ditch, but a larger package still is missing.

The case was turned over to federal authorities.

150 ATTEND AIRPORT CHRISTMAS PARTY

Employes of the Harrington Air Service, Manufacturing company and the Sky club held their annual Christmas party last night at the Blue Goose tavern with 150 in attendance.

Lunch was served at 10 p. m. Dance music was provided by Darrell Hook and his Rhythm Masters.

Party Chairwoman Miss Mike Simmons was assisted by Miss Eileen Weaver, Mervin Boals and Jerry Watson.

HOME BUILDERS SLOW TO REACT

The removal of housing controls by the government hasn't resulted in an immediate rush to build, Mansfield building permit records indicated today.

Only one permit for the construction of a new home has been issued so far this month. This, however, was attributed to the partial lifting of controls. The home is valued at $6,000.

Only other construction authorized so far this month included two home remodeling projects totaling $2,400, and a $6,000 industrial structure.

Officials said the winter season, the continuing labor shortage and the fact the new housing program is slow in developing, are reasons for the lack of an immediate home-building spurt.

KNIGHTS TEMPLAR SERVICES MONDAY

Mansfield Commandery No. 21, Knights Templar, will stage its annual Christmas service in the banquet room of Masonic temple Monday at 8 p. m., it was announced today.

Main address of the evening, which will include musical entertainment and a social hour following the meeting, will be given by Rev. J. Frank Stewart, pastor of the Central Methodist church. He will speak on "Christmas Harmony."

Invocation and benediction will be spoken by Rev. C. F. Sheriff, pastor of St. Matthew's Lutheran church. Greetings to the most eminent grand master, John D. Van Cura, will be extended by John S. McNaul and the grand prelate's message will be given by E. Ray Jenkins.

Music will be provided by the Misses Wanda and Norma Hess, accompanied by O. L. Seyboll and assembly singing.

O'Neil Pays Bonus To Store Employes

The M. O'Neil company announced today that a Christmas bonus paycheck will be given to all regular employes of the new Mansfield store.

Jack Miller, store manager, said all employes who have been with the store since its opening Dec. 6 will be affected. He estimated approximately 150 persons are employed at the store here.

A Christmas bonus is an annual custom of the company, Miller said, and employes in O'Neil stores in Akron, Coshocton, Cuyahoga Falls and Massillon also will receive bonuses.

ICE FANTASY—

A pretty Christmas scene drawn by Jack Frost attracted courthouse employes in the clerk of courts' office this morning. The tableau was etched in frozen moisture on one of the office windows. With the aid of a little fancy, a rather lean Santa Claus pulled down a tree-covered hill by a reindeer with a square head on an overly-lean neck could be seen. The only factor missing was the sound of sleigh bells.

NEW HOUSING TOO COSTLY, STATES STARR

Organization Approves Some Points in Government's Revised Plans.

WASHINGTON — (INS) — Louis E. Starr, commander-in-chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, declared today that the "much-advertised veterans' housing program" is no more.

The veterans' leader predicted that most ex-GI's would have to depend on a "trickle-down process" for housing. He said more houses will be built under President Truman's new decontrol program than under the strict control system of former Housing Expediter Wilson Wyatt. He added:

"But, the bulk of new construction will go to non-veterans, with the veterans benefiting from increased vacancies of less expensive and less desirable units."

Starr pointed out that a VFW survey showed that 90 per cent of World war veterans cannot afford to pay more than fifty dollars a month for shelter.

He said, however, that the VFW approved of many of the features of the new program. He also stated that he has urged Housing Expediter Frank Creedon and Administrator Raymond Foley to make available 40-year, low interest loans to veterans who want to build homes.

Meanwhile, both Creedon and Foley predicted that removal of the $10,000 ceiling on new home prices will not result in a flood of luxury building.

Both emphasized to a senate small business subcommittee that the "big push" for 1947 will be on rental housing. Creedon listed these measures as the keynotes of an "affirmative" administration housing program:

1. Premium payments where they will increase the production of essential building materials.

2. Encouragement of imports of building materials.

3. Guaranteed markets for factory-built homes and new materials.

4. Financial backing for manufacturers of such homes and materials.

5. Use of government surplus equipment and military installations in the housing program.

6. Broadened use of insured mortgage financing to encourage building of rental housing for veterans, and a request that congress provide further aids and incentives to rental housing.

At the same hearing, temporary controls Administrator Philip Fleming predicted enough building materials in 1947 to permit completion of one million homes. He added that expanded non-residential building also would be possible.

Fleming stated that "it will be our purpose to wind up all controls as quickly as we can, so that we can return to the traditional free enterprise system."

Violator Sent To Penitentiary

Clifford Nixon, 40, ordered into common pleas court by Probation Officer Ralph Hughes, yesterday was sentenced to the Ohio penitentiary for one to three years as a probation violator.

Nixon was placed on probation May 29, 1945, for five years after being convicted of non-support of his seven children. He was found in violation of his probation after he had been convicted in municipal court Nov. 21 of leaving the scene of an accident.

Sheriff Seeks Ex-OSR Inmate

Charles W. Hinkley, 23, who was released on parole from Mansfield reformatory Tuesday, was held in the county jail today at the request of Sheriff E. W. Biscailuz, sheriff of Los Angeles county, Calif.

Biscailuz telegraphed Sheriff Frank E. Robinson here that there had been a delay in forwarding extradition papers. He did not disclose the charges on which Hinkley is wanted in California.

Opposition Delays Action on Ritter's Run Tunnel Project

Approval of the county commissioners on the proposal to enclose a part of Ritter's Run in a paved tunnel north of East First street was withheld yesterday when one of four property owners protested against the project.

The project, estimated to cost from $14,581 to $22,473, would have involved tax assessments totaling $3,106 against the Clyde Richardson estate, adjacent property owner. Atty. William M. Weldon, representing the estate, said his client could not afford such a high assessment.

Other land owners and the proposed assessments against them are the Borden company, $5,343, W. E. Antrican, $1,092, and Goldie Fox, $2,985. The Borden company and Antrican were reported in favor of the improvement while George Fox, husband of Goldie Fox, was reported as desiring a lower assessment.

With this opposition to the project the commissioners voted to postpone final decisions for 30 to 60 days and to review the assessment schedule in the meantime.

Meanwhile, commissioners yesterday approved two other ditch improvement projects, both in Madison township. They ordered the county engineer to advertise for bids on the proposed cleanout of the Homesite Gardens ditch.

Some 2,640 feet of the ditch is to be cleaned at an estimated cost of $528. Thirty-four property owners were assessed costs averaging $7 per parcel. Bids on the job must be received by 10 a. m. Jan. 25.

Bids were to be received at the same time for the construction of a combined open and closed (tiled) drainage system for the City Farms ditch. Approximately 1,550 feet of the ditch will be improved at an estimated cost of $1,105.

Twelve property owners were assessed costs ranging from $10 to $20. Madison township is to pay for $200 of the cost and Richland county for $165.

Brodie cigar store dropped out of a first place deadlock by dropping a 28 to 22 decision to the OPS quintet while the Shelby cagers toyed with Mansfield Tire, 38 to 10. Sands had 19 counters for the Merchants.

OPS held a 4 to 3 at the quarter but fell behind at the half, 14 to 11. Brodie continued to lead, 19 to 17, as the final heat began but could not match the torrid pace of the OPS hoopsters in the last eight minutes.

In the other tilts, Phalanx Fraternity defeated Westinghouse, 36 to 25 while Dominion Electric edged Mansfield Plating, 43 to 39. The victory gave Phalanx a share of the No. 3 spot in the league with the Cigarmen. Tinkey notched 13 points for Phalanx.

Tinkham and Dalton accounted for 33 points as Dominion copped its first victory of the season.
